FOUR-POWER PACT INSURES PEACE IN PACIFIC, DECLARES DENBY

RAILWAY PACT TIGHTENS GRIP OF JAPANESE ON MANCHURIA

Through Traffic Agreement Wins For Empirists

IS ENLIGHTENING

Explains Readiness To Take Troops Out Of Siberia

BY JOSEF W. BALL
Staff Correspondent the China Press

Peking, July 21.—The Through Traffic Agreement concluded between the Chinese Administration of the Chinese Eastern Railway and the Management of the South Manchurian Railway which went into effect upon July 1, and the financial deal concluded in connection therewith, have won for the Japanese empirists with one stroke all that they have been contending for in North Manchuria and East Siberia.

The inference is that having assured themselves of economic domination over the Maritime and adjacent provinces through absolute control of the routes of exit of the produce therefrom, they are now willing to withdraw their military from Vladivostok. Further retention of Japanese troops at that doomed port would, indeed, be a superfluity. The port is to be absolutely cut off, (with the exception of a few miles of unproductive country) from its hinterland, and is blocked in front by the Japanese appropriation of Saghalien. The retention of Japanese guards along the line of the Chinese Eastern is, however, in view of recent developments, a different question and is more likely to continue.

The "protocol," as it is officially designated by the Japanese between the two railways, converts the Chinese Eastern into a feeding line of the South Manchurian, and its successful working is bound to bring about with little delay its consolidation into the S. M. system. The event which will mark this further step in the fastening of Japanese economic control upon North Manchuria and the eastern provinces of Siberia will be the changing of the guage of the Southern Section of the Chinese Eastern between Harbin and Changchun, from the Russian broad guage to the standard gauge. It will come, if no obstruction arises, suddenly and quietly, for the stage is all set.

TRAINING SCHOOL

A Japanese railway training school in Changchun is training Japanese railwaymen in the Russian system despatching, which is the exact opposite of the system used by the Japanese. A commission of Japanese engineers reported a year ago that with the resources then at their command the rail could be moved over three and one-half inches and respiked along the entire line in twenty-four hours. Fifty-four American locomotives lay at Dairen in readiness to substitute for the broad-guage Russian engines. The five-year development scheme budget of the South Manchurian line put into effect two years ago allows out of the total sum of Yen 425,000,000 an item of Yen 151,000,000 for "improvement and purchase of track and rolling-stock." As is well known, the present 700 miles of South Manchurian track are the best equipped in the world in rolling-stock. There is absolutely no room on the present line for further millions of yen worth of equipment.

The crux of the recent agreement is in the words of the Japanese text:

Question 2. Through Tariff for readjustment of the interests of the South Manchurian and the Chinese Eastern Railway (Proposed by S.M.R.)

CONFERENCE ISSUE

This question formed the most important issue at the Conference. The Tariffs of the Chinese Eastern Railway were originally formulated according to the fundamental tariff policy, by which the Chinese Eastern Railway was regarded as

CHANG TSO-LIN IS RECRUITING FOR NEW DRIVE INTO PEKING

Mukden General Getting Ready For Revenge

TIES UP RAILWAY

Gen. Wu Pei-fu Prepared For Fengtien Leader

Peitaiho, July 22.—Rumors are current here that Chang Tso-lin will discontinue traffic on the northern half of the Peking-Mukden railway on the twenty-fourth. This rumor, however, has not been confirmed.

If it is true there is reason to believe that it is connected with Chang's scheme to permanently alienate the railway, rather than to immediately re-invade Chihli. Chang is feverishly recruiting throughout Manchuria, employing Japanese, Russian and Danish drill masters and German aeronautical instructors. However, it is safe to say that he plans no action before the harvest.

Popular sentiment in Manchuria, particularly in business circles, which suffered less than any other class in the recent struggle, is strongly pro-Chang. These interests, however, are opposed to his re-invasion of Chihli.

Chang gives out that he is merely preparing to regain three special areas on the Mongolian border that were taken away from him. His political strategy is to denounce Tsao Kun's presidential ambitions, and if Tsao captures parliament, to come out as a champion of President Li Yuan-hung, thus taking the wind from Wu Pei-fu's sails.

Wu, however, is not unprepared for such an eventuality, and may have deliberately laid the ground for it.

Cabinet Considers Protest Of British On Railway Tangle

(Chang Mei Service)

Peking, July 21.—At yesterday's Cabinet meeting the matter of the protest lodged by the British Legation over the conditions of the Peking Mukden Railway was discussed. The note requested definite action toward the relief of that line from the malpractices of General Chang Tso-lin who is holding a great number of locomotives and other rolling stock beyond the Great Wall thereby cutting down the effectiveness of the Railway to a great extent which in turn has caused the revenues to drop to something like $20,000 a day whereas it should be measured in hundreds of thousands.

In addition to this he has been withholding the revenues collected north of Shanhaikuan and is now insisting that his own underlings be placed in the responsible positions of the Peking Mukden offices. Since this line is security for a foreign loan the matter is considered serious.

As has been the case right through in dealing with the Fengtien General, the Cabinet came to no constructive decision. After a long debate it was decided to send a special representative, Mr. Chaver Sun, former Viceory of Manchuria, north of the Wall to see the actual conditions for himself and report to the Cabinet. Meantime the conditions of affairs objected to will continue and General Chang will work up more nerve to carry on his insolent policy toward the Peking Government.

The gravity of the situation is keenly felt among certain members of the Government, one of whom pointed out that unless drastic steps are taken to guarantee the security in the case of the railway in question, all the other nations having loans based on securities which are likewise not too well protected, will follow suit in getting their hands on the security and soon an international control will have sprung into existence.

U. S. SECRETARY OF NAVY TELLS THINGS DONE AT WASHINGTON CONFERENCE

Visiting Cabinet Officer Guest At American Community Dinner Given By Chamber O Commerce And American Association

DESCRIBES CONDITIONS 30 YEARS AGO

Mr. Denby Voicing Hope That Present Visit Will Not Be Last He Will Make Brings Forth Storm Of Applause From Gathering

"Coming back to China after an absence of twenty-eight years," said Secretary of the Navy Edwin Denby before a gathering of 400 people at The Carlton last night, "I find the same old charm—the something that is indefinable that grips and holds men who have lived long in the Orient."

The occasion was the American Community Dinner given in honor of the visiting Cabinet Officer by the American Chamber of Commerce and The American Association of China and it was perhaps the auspicious affair of the kind given by Americans of Shanghai in years. Music for the dinner was provided by the band from the Transport Henderson under the direction of Chief Musician Charles H. Boller and no small measure of commendation should be given to The Carlton management for the excellence of the service and the quality of the menu.

MANY DIGNITARIES

Mr. E. S. Cunningham, American Consul-General presided with Mr. Denby on his right and among those at the main table were General Ho Feng-ling, Military Governor of Shanghai and Sungkiang, Admiral Tsai Ting-kan with other Chinese dignitaries, Admiral Joseph Strauss, Commander of the American Asiatic Fleet, Rear Admiral W. H. R. Bullard, Commander of the Yangtsze Patrol with their Aides and other American Naval officers, Major-General George Barnett, who commanded the United States Marine Corps during the war and who is a member of Mr. Denby's party, and, representing the American Chamber of Commerce and the American Association, Mr. W. A. Burns, acting President of the Chamber and Mr. T. E. Doremus, President of the American Association and members of the executive bodies of these organisations and many members of the American Consular staff, all accompanied by their ladies.

Before the speaking began the toast to the President was given by Mr. Cunningham and was drunk standing by the big gathering. In the course of his introduction Mr. Cunningham said that in welcoming Mr. Denby Americans here were welcoming an old China hand and before launching into an address he had prepared and which he read Mr. Denby referred feelingly to the days of thirty years ago when his father was American Minister at Peking and when he lived in China.

He said many of his first experiences in life had developed in China and illustrating this he remarked that he had made his first speech in China at the age of 16—at the home of Sir Robert Hart. He paid a glowing tribute to this great British statesman who founded the post office in China and was the man who built up the great system of Chinese Customs.

They were glorious days, "too glorious, perhaps," he said. Under the spell of his own words he told other reminiscences of his years in the customs service at Peking, Tientsin, Chefoo and at Macao. He said he felt like and 'ancient Manchu Mandarin' in coming back to China and spoke of the tremendous changes that the years have brought. The hope that he expressed that this would not be his last visit to Shanghai brought forth rounds of applause.

CONSUL-GENERAL SPEAKS

The address that Mr. Cunningham gave in introducing Mr. Denby was as follows:

"It is a very great honor that the executives of the American Association and the American Chamber of Commerce have done me this evening in inviting me to extend a cordial welcome to our distinguished visitor. It is a rare privilege to extend a sincere welcome to an official who stands so high in our Government. It is a rarer privilege to combine this distinction with that of being able to extend a welcoming home to a "China-hand" after an absence of 28 years.

"In extending this welcome I am not unmindful of the fact that China has no more sincere friend than Mr. Denby. I am not unmindful of the fact that our visitor is one of a family which has been known to China for nearly a half century and which has been prominently indentified in America's endeavors here during much of that period. I am not unmindful of the fact that Mr. Denby's father was one of America's best known representatives at Peking and only this morning I heard the remark that during his term as Minister in Peking the American Missions were given a new recognition and

Denby Breaks Ground For American School

Not the least impressive of the several functions in which Secretary of the Navy Edwin C. Denby played a leading role yesterday was the breaking of ground for the new building of the Shanghai American School on the site between Route Louis Dufour and Avenue Petain immediately following the reception at the Columbia Country Club.

Rev. J. T. Proctor, chairman of the board of managers of the school, briefly outlined the history of the institution, telling of its organisation ten years ago, its expansion so that it might serve the entire community, and the campaigns which had been waged here in Shanghai and in America to obtain funds for the purchase of the new site and the erection of a permanent home.

"The American community," he said "has determined not only to have a splendid school, but nothing short of the greatest American school outside of America."

FILLS GREAT NEED

Dr. Proctor thanked the French Consul-General M. Wilden, as the representative of the French authorities, for the co-operation lent in achieving the realisation of the plans for the new school, as well as the Chinese commissioner for foreign affairs for his assistance. He then called upon Secretary Denby.

"Nothing could be more gratifying to me than this opportunity which you have given me this afternoon to take part in a ceremony leading to the establishment of one of the greatest institutions in the Far East," said Secretary Denby. "I remember in the old days the terrible difficulties which arose when children of foreign residents were of an age when they needed advanced schooling. This will meet one of the most pressing needs of the American community in China, and I am glad to think that there is to be an adequate American school here, a school which will emphasise the fact that the destiny of our citizenship follows us everywhere, which will plant here the seed that shall produce genuine American citizens, ready in peace or in war to fulfil their obligations to their country. It is gratifying, too, that this school is to be built on ground belonging to France, the Republic with which we have for so long had the most intimate and cordial relations."

CONTRACT IS LET

Mr. T. E. Doremus, chairman of the building committee of the school, then handed the Secretary a new spade, its handle wrapped in the American national colors, with which he turned the first earth for the new structure.

In connection with the breaking of ground for the new buildings, it is announced that the general contract has been let to Kaung Yue Kee, and that as soon as possible further contracts for heating, plumbing, electric wiring, finishing, hardware, etc., will be let. It is anticipated that the total expenditure in connection with the four buildings now contracted for will reach Taels 265,000, exclusive of all expenditure already made in connection with the purchase of land or in connection with the campaign already conducted or the administration of the School, itself. Funds for the buildings have been provided by the generosity of Americans in China and America, and the organisations with which they are connected.

The main tract of land for the school comprises about ninety-four mow, or approximately sixteen acres. In the north-eastern portion of this piece the temporary primary building is now approaching completion and will be ready for occupancy by the first four grades of the school in September. Murphy, McGill and Hamlin are the architects for the school. The plans were prepared under the personal supervison of Mr. E. W. Hazzard, head of the firm.

A group of more than 200, principally Americans, attended the ceremonies yesterday. Among the foreign officials present were Consul-General Wilden and Captain Ruel, head of the French police, and Hsu Yuan, commissioner for foreign affairs.

BODY OF YOUTH FOUND; FATHER CHARGES MURDER

Seventeen-Year-Old Jack David Meets Death Under Trestle Near Woosung

Following the tragic death of Jack David, a 17-year-old public school boy, whose body was found on Sunday afternoon in the bed of Saw Gin Road creek beneath a trestle where seemingly it had been hurled by a passing train, an investigation is being made by the police.

The inquiry was inspired largely by assertions mode by Mr. D. David of 81 Woosung Road who declared yesterday at the Mortuary that he believed his son had not been struck by a train but had been foully dealt with by Chinese loafers.

No one who witnessed the lad's death has yet been found. A foreigner walking across the trestle of the Shanghai-Woosung Railway discovered the body in the creek bed and at the time it was removed it was taken for granted that when the boy was crossing the trestle he was overtaken by the train for Woosung which left Shanghai at 2:40 o'clock.

Young David left home about 2 o'clock with the purpose of following a recent custom of his of walking to Woosung and back as a form of exercise. The next word his parents received was that the body of a boy answering his description had been found.

In charging that his son had been murdered the elder David said the condition of the body did not indicate that the boy had been struck by a train, but did bear marks that seemingly had been made by an assailant.

Within recent weeks residents of Woosung have presented several petitions to Chinese authorities asking for protection from bands of lawless loafers to whom various crimes against pedestrians on the way to Woosung have been ascribed.

JAPANESE GIRL ARRESTED FOR $1,200 LARCENY

Stole Watches From Nanking Road Shop, Is Charge

Mary Lopez, 15-year-old Japanese girl, adopted daughter of a family living on Woosung Road, was arrested by Detective Sergeants Yorke and Robertson of Central Station last night and will be charged in the Japanese Police Court this morning with the theft of seventeen watches valued at $1,200 from the jewelry store of Boyes, Bassett and Company on Nanking Road. The watches were recovered when the detectives arrested the girl at her home.

According to the police, the girl entered the jewelry store at tiffin time yesterday when most of the clerks were away, and asked to be shown some watches. In some manner, she distracted the attention of the clerk and managed to slip seventeen of the watches into her clothes while he was not looking. Then, without making any purchase, she left the store.

The theft was not discovered until some time later and the Central Police were not notified until after 2 o'clock in the afternoon. From the description furnished them by the clerk, they arrested the girl at her home at 7 o'clock in the evening. When taken into custody, she readily admitted the theft and produced the stolen jewelry.

be... of greater importance than ever before.

"Mr. Denby was for a number of years connected with the Chinese Maritime Customs and during that time, as well as during his earlier years, he learned much in regard to China, which has been useful to him in the public career and which has enabled him to serve the peoples of America and China mutually in many endeavors.

"Another member of his family, Mr. Charles Denby, a brother, was Consul-General here from 1906 to 1908.

FATHER OF COURT

"Perhaps Americans are indebted to a great extent to Mr. Denby on account of his interest in getting through Congress a plan for a United States Court for China than for any other single act. In 1904 our guest was elected from Michigan to the United States Congress. It is assumed that Congress did not convene until the autumn of 1905 and recognising from his experience in China the importance of establishing a Court he introduced and guided through the house a bill which was passed on June 30, 1906, which created the United States Court for China.

Mr. Denby is the father of the United States Court for China. The Court has weathered may storms; has been subject to much criticism and yet the Court as organized under this bill has passed through very few changes and we are all happy that the Court today is able to maintain the dignity and the position which its founder anticipated for it. This was one of the earliest acts of Congressman Denby and his residence and experience in China impressed upon him the importance of creating a judiciary of the kind outlined in his bill and he hastened to give Americans in China the benefit of a judicial system equal to any enjoyed by those of other national ities.

"Mr. Denby in 1908 again showed his great love and affection for the people of China by guiding through Congress the Act that restored to China the Boxer Indemnity Fund. This in the estimation of many is one of the most public spirited deeds of the American nation, and it is a gift which has brought inestimable good to many Chinese who have been enabled through it to obtain an education. This is a gift of America which reminds me of the saying that 'It is more blessed to give than to receive' because through the education of a great number of Chinese in America Americans are proud that the have enabled so many young men to receive an education abroad who might not have found it possible otherwise.

"Mr. Secretary, I take great pleasure in extending to you a sincere welcome on behalf of the entire American Community as represented by the organizations under whose auspices this dinner is given. It is a great pleasure to extend to you a return welcome to China, a country which has always been dear to you and in which you have always manifested such a sincere interest.

"I take great pleasure in extending to you and Mrs. Denby a most hearty welcome; and I beg the honor of introducing you, Mr Secretary, to those present of our 3500 civil population."

MR. DENBY'S ADDRESS

The text of the address that was read by Mr. Denby following Mr. Cunningham's address was as follows:

"It is a great pleasure to come to the Orient at this particular time. The powers of the West and of the East have concluded an agreement which will unquestionably be ratified and become the law of each of the states concerned, regarding the limitation of armaments and the settlement of Pacific questions as well as a number of other matters.

"It is a source of gratification that the Conference wherein these matters were discussed and disposed of war held in the City of Washington and upon the call of the American government. It is doubly a matter for gratification that the British and Japanese as well as the other powers concerned responded so promptly and co-operated so heartily to bring about a condition designed to stop the policy of competitive building of warships and to diminish the chances of conflict in the Pacific and in the world in general.

"Never before, I think, has a Conference on these lines resulted in such complete success. Never before have nations agreed to self-denying ordinance whereby they have limited their own strength for the general good. This Conference, I believe, marks the beginning of a new and distinctly better era in diplomacy and will, I hope, lead to the continuance and increase of the friendly relations of the powers concerned. A world policy concurred in by so many great nations must result in the diminishing of suspicion and distrust to the vanishing point so that what have been called the pin-pricks of diplomacy will lose much of their sting and the ground work for real dislike and hostility will not be so readily laid in the future as in the past. To the American people the custom of the Conference was gratifying in the extreme and the United States demonstrated its belief in the new policy by making the greatest sacrifice made by any nation in ships and money—a sacrifice gladly and eagerly made for the future good of our own country and the future peace and good feeling of the world.

"Today, I think we stand more firmly intrenched in our own determination to cultivate good will with all nations than ever before. If the Conference shall have had but one result, it will have been infinitely worth while. If it shall have converted the mental attitude of the world from constant suspicion to mutual confidence, a long step will have been taken toward future and continuing friendliness.

AMERICA'S POSITION

"The United States has no enemies to fear, but many friends to cultivate. The United States looks with eager approval upon the success and prosperity of other powers. The United States desires only that the world shall remain at peace; that the stronger governments shall remain strong, and the weaker governments shall be strengthened so that their people may enjoy the prosperity that we desire for ourselves. We are a people who are being rapidly educated to an intelligent sentimentality which leads us to cherish friendships and yet does not in any way lessen our intense ly national patriotism. Having been the leader in the great movement which found its culmination in the Washington Conference, the people of the United States may be relied upon to endeavor in all ways to carry out the agreements reached at Washington and to use all proper means to see that others also give full effect to those agreements.

"I wish I could convey to you the atmosphere of the Conference at Washington. It was one of earnest desire that definite and beneficial results should flow from the Conference. The delegates met without a definite program agreed upon. It was left for the American Secretary of State to suggest a program of a daring seldom seen in an international gathering and it was left for Great Britain, Japan and the other powers heartily to concur in the agreement after a reasonable period for discussion and digestion of the proposals made.

"The naval representatives of all the powers concerned in the treaties acquiesced gladly in the destruction of such portions of their armament as it was deemed best to destroy and entered eagerly into the spirit of mutual agreement and accommodation. The Conference ended in good feeling and high hopes for the future. There is now no reason to question but that these hopes will be fully justified.

WHAT PACT WILL DO

"The Pacific four-power pact will, I earnestly hope and believe, result in the removal from this great field of many of the causes of irritation which have been impediments to sincere friendship in the past. That pact is not an alliance in any sense of the word. nct does it suggest combined war upon recalcitrant powers as a settlement of questions which are found difficult to determine by negotiation.

"It does suggest friendly discussion, free exchange of views and mutual encouragement to peacefully resolve the differences that may arise between the powers. It should, and I hope will, result in councils of accommodation whereat disturbing questions may be dealt with in the most friendly spirit, confidence instead of mistrust may be encouraged, and ultimately international differences adjusted with wisdom and courtesy.

"I am visiting the Orient not for the first time nor, I earnestly hope, for the last. For twenty-eight years I have thought much of the future of the nations bordering the Pacific and have always earnestly hoped that the day would come when all forms of aggression would cease and when the bitterness of the past might be forgotten in the enlightened policies of the future.

"I think we stand now at the dawn of that day. I believe that all the nations now realise that their own interests demand peace in the Orient. I believe in the sincerity of their protestations to that effect as I believe in the integrity of my own people. It will be an ill commentary upon our statesmanship, upon our religion and upon our common sense if we cannot all dwell here together enjoying the benefits of peaceful and friendly trade and intercourse. Great problems remain to be solved. Great elements as yet unknown or undeveloped enter into those problems. Mutual forbearance will be required, but in the end I hope and believe that the dawn of the Pacific era will really mark a better attitude on the part of nations one to another, especially amongst these that surround this vast ocean.

SEES HOPEFUL SIGNS

"Many signs indicate that the powers here concerned do intend to pursue a policy of enlightened helpfulness, if we may so call it, in their dealings with one another. The contemplated surrender of the Boxer indemnity by various of the powers is but an outward sign of the better understanding and the loftier ideals which I think have come into the world. Some lilies have sprung from the deadly mire of the great war. If there is any truth in evolution there must be something good derived from even the horrors of such dreadful conflicts. The mills of God grind slowly, and sometimes it seems that the progress of the race upward has ceased, but in the long future it is safe to believe that somehow good will come from each awful setback from which civilisation seems to suffer. If this is not so we shall lose our sanity. If we have reached the end of the genuine progress of humanity in spiritual as well as material things then it is hard to see to what end we live at all.

"It seems to me that we are coming nearer and nearer to the time when the same principles of honor that prevail among individuals of that splendid type properly designated as gentlemen shall prevail amongst nations. If it is necessary for the continuance of our social relations within our own country that we shall adhere to a certain code of honor, it is doubly necessary that nations shall also adhere to a code of honor even more rigid. There cannot be anything more sacred among men than the pledged word of a nation.

"Kipling said, "Send forth the best ye breed." This applies with equal force to the goods you sell. If you would keep your country high in the world's regard, cultivate that confidence which is the greatest asset that individual or nation can possess. Forget the days when it was deemed smart and not ignoble to trick with inferior goods or to take advantage of the ignorance of the purchaser. That there were such days cannot be denied; but they are over now.

"To you Americans who dwell here and in other distant places and upon whom rests the burden of extending your country's trade and influence, let me say that, although it may appear at times that you have been forgotten, your government has not forgotten you nor ceased to entertain the most lively desire to do all that maybe done to give you help and encouragement. Remember how hard it is for those at home to fully understand the need for certain things which you feel so keenly and appreciate so thoroughly. The man at home does not understand your need for a separate law under which to organise and conduct your corporations. It is not easy to secure proper legislation for such strange and ill-understood purposes. But more and more the American people are beginning to understand your needs and your difficulties. Certainly those of us who realise what trade extension means will work for you and do what we can to make possible the fulfillment of your mission as American citizens.

"I leave China where I have been entertained so hospitably by this Republic, with the same affectionate regard for its people which I have always felt. The people of China deserve, if any people in the world deserve, the opportunity for the development of their own institutions and the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, which the declared policies of Great Britain, Japan and the United States should result in their securing.

FOR REMOVING SUPERFLUOUS HAIR.

No woman who has any sense of beauty will deny that superfluous hair is one of the greatest drawbacks to good looks.

Realising this, women of all times have put themselves to any expense and have endured considerable pain and discomfort in order to rid themselves of this great disfigurement.

Nowadays electrolysis is a prevalent "cure" for this evil, but in reality this process involves a great deal of unnecessary expense, waste of time and pain.

The simplest quickest, and most effective treatment can easily be carried out by any sufferer, in the privacy of her home. This is the recipe:

Procure about 1 oz. powdered pheminol from your chemist; mix a sufficient quantity with a few drops of water into a stiff paste. Apply this carefully and thoroughly to the hair you wish to remove, and allow the paste to dry. In a few minutes it can be gently scraped away. The skin is left absolutely free from hair, and should then be carefully washed in warm water, and if desired, lightly dusted with a little talcum powder. (Advt.)

THRIFT TESTIMONIALS OF NOTABLE MEN

"I have often been asked to define the true secret of success. It is thrift in all its phases, and especially thrift as applied to saving. Saving is the first great principle of success. It creates independence, it gives a young man standing, fills him with vigor, it stimulates him with proper energy; in fact, it brings to him the best part of any success—happiness and contentment."

"I don't need life insurance because I am single."

"SINCE you are single, wouldn't it be better for you to make a small sacrifice now and start your insurance at a low rate than to wait until you are married and compel your family to share the effort to pay for the same protection at a higher rate?

Close Case Against Spence And Chalmers

Testimony for the prosecution in the case brought in the British Police Court before Magistrate J. W. King against G. Y. Chalmers and A. M. Spence closed yesterday afternoon. The two men are charged with conspiracy to defraud through the operation of alleged bogus insurance companies.

The Magistrate in adjourning the case until 10:30 o'clock today, declared that the Court was not trying the case summarily. He would frame a charge, and the defendants could, if they desired, give their evidence or reserve it for the higher court. If they gave their evidence and it convinced him that they were innocent then he would not commit them.

Testimony by Mr. M. F. Perkins, American Executive Consul, was the outstanding feature of the afternoon's session. Mr. Perkins said that his attention had been called to the two insurance companies which Chalmers, Spence and W. G. Wallace are alleged to have represented here, by advertisements and letters in the Chinese press. A letter was addressed to Wallace, in which it was pointed out that no application for registration had been made at the American Consulate.

START PROBE

The witness was questioned as to his knowledge of the existence of the two companies in the United States and said that his information as to their non-existence had come from American insurance people. Mr. Perkins then told of a letter received by the American Consulate in which Wallace stated that he was appointed manager for the companies by Mr. Spense and that the latter would see the Municipal authorities. The Consul-General sent a letter to Wallace in which he stated that inasmuch as the advertisements were appearing under his name, he would be responsible. He was also informed that the United States district attorney had been asked to make an investigation.

"The next day," Mr. Perkins continued, "Spence called and saw me and said he came on behalf of Wallace. I had no particular conversation with him. Spence then went to see the Consul-General, and after a conversation with Mr. Cunningham decided to go and see the district attorney. The district attorney, in a letter to the Consul-General, said that Spence had informed him that he was the duly authorised agent for the two insurance companies. He mentioned that he had requested Spence to produce in his office certified copies of the agreement, the power of attorney and other papers to establish the fact that he was the authorised agent. Although he had promised to bring these the next day, they had not been produced as yet."

NO REPLY AS YET

Mr. Perkins then told of the sending of an inquiry a week ago Saturday through the American State department to ascertain the authenticity of the German-American Fire and Marine Insurance Company and the World Insurance Underwriters and whether they had agents at Shanghai. No reply had been received as yet, but one was expected at any moment.

Daniano de la Vega, a Spanish subject from Hankow, said he was employed in the Hankow branch of Andersen Meyer and Co. About the end of June last he met Chalmers at a dinner given at a Chinese singsong house, where he also met Wallace, who said that he wanted to give the agencies of Tide Waters Insurance Underwriters, the Aero Underwriters and the German-American. The agencies for the last two companies witness accepted.

A few days after he met Chalmers and Wallace by appointment at the Hankow Hotel, and on July 4 the contract was signed and Tls. 1,000 was paid as cash security to Wallace and a further Tls. 5,000 was to be found in shop security. Witness did not do any business in connection with these two agencies as the power of attorney which Wallace promised was not received. The agreement called for office rent, which was not paid. Wallace and Chalmers told witness that the Shanghai office had been established three months, and that the head offices of the companies were in Baltimore and Jersey city.

ALLEGED FORGERY

Mr. A. P. Chase, an agent for the Asia Life Insurance Company, said he had been in Shanghai three years and a half and had known both the accused slightly. Shown a letter purporting to be signed by "A. P. Chase" witness denied the signature was his.

There is evidence that when the compradore, to whom this letter was shown, went to Peitaiho Lane, the defendant Chalmers admitted that he wrote and signed this letter.

Can you suggest why he should have written that letter?

You will have to ask the person who drew up that instrument. I do not know the reason why my name was used

Detective Sergeant Yorke said that before he arrested Spence he had a conversation with him on July 10 at the Central Police Station when he went there with the intention of putting up bail for Wallace.

Witness told Spence that enquiries were being made into the status of the German—American Insurance Co. and the World Insurance Underwriters Company. Spence said that he was agent.

"MR. SMITHSON"

Magistrate: What was in your mind at the time when you asked him that question? To find out who the promoters were.

Not at the time when you arrested him, you are quite sure?

Before I arrested him.

When he said he was the agent what was your frame of mind? I did not intend to arrest him then.

Witness, continuing, said he enquired of Spence whether he had a power of attorney, and was told that no power of attorney was held but that he had taken over the business from an American Citizen called Smithson.

Spence said he did not know the surname of Smithson, nor where he resided and that he had taken over the business a short time previous owing to Smithson's departure on furlough.

In consequence of what Spence had told witness, enquiries were made about Smithson Being unable to find any record of Smithson at the American Consulate, witness again met Spence July 11, when Spence came to put up bail, and told him that no information could be obtained of Smithson

Then Spence replied, witness said: "That looks bad, does it not." Spence did not withdraw the story regarding Smithson but suggested that witness and he should go down to the office the next morning.

At 10 a.m. the next morning Spence was again in the Police Station and both witness and Spence went to the offices of the Insurance Companies at 8, Kiangse Road.

DOES HE EXIST

Continuing Detective Sergeant Yorke said:

Spence then showed me the correspondence from the Secretary of the American Chamber of Commerce, the American Consulate and the copy of a cablegram that he had sent out to America as a result of these letters. The letter first shown to me was one that we addressed to the compradore requesting him to close down until the investigations were completed.

Spence asked me what would be the best thing, under the circumstances.

I suggested he should arrange with the office staff for an account of the business done by the company, and Spence ordered a Chinese in the office to commence this statement of account.

Before leaving the office I said to Spence.

"What about Smithson, does he exist?" He replied: "It doesn't look like it, does it?" and smiled. Dzung Kya Sung, for two years in the employ of the Sun Fire Insurance Company a clerk, said he was the brother-in-law of the compradore and had resigned from his old employment to join the accused as chief clerk. He went to Peitaiho Road in March last and saw Spence, Chalmers and Chang

ALTER DEPOSIT

Spence showed the promised agreement for compradore in his brother-in-law Witness translated it.

The agreement was alright except that this brother-in-law did not agree to the Tls. 3,000 deposit and this was altered to Tls. 1,000. As chief clerk he had issued for the German—American Insurance Company policies and the premiums collected were Tls. 732.50. For the World Insurance Underwriters he issued 109 policies and the premiums collected were Tls. 361.95.

Continuing, the witness said that Spence signed 10 policies connection with both companies, and this was when Wallace was at Hankow.

Wallace had appointed agents in Hangchow and other out-ports. Witness received a months salary for May on a compradore order signed by Wallace. No policies were signed by Chalmers.

Cross-examined, witness said that when he went with Wallace to Hankow, Wallace told him that Spence would sign per procuration all policies during his absence. Chalmers had engaged him as chief clerk, he said. The first policy was issued on May 21.

A Chinese engaged in the import and export trade said he insured his premises with the World Insurance Underwriters, through a broker. Five policies were issued, but no premium had yet been paid.

Last Rites Held For Mrs. Hiltner

The funeral of Carrie Schultz Hiltner, late wife of Dr. Walter G. Hiltner, was held in Bubbling Well cemetery Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Hiltner's sudden death, due directly to cholera, occurred early Sunday morning, and was particularly tragic since it followed but nine days after the birth of her fourth child, Charles Martin Hiltner, on July 14.

The services Sunday were conducted by Bishop L. J. Birney who in an eloquent and touching tribute to the dead woman, dwelt besides, in his short talk, on the three great truths of an unchanging God, the invicibility of life and the fact, sometimes difficult for the grief-stricken to discern, that all things work together in a spiritual alchemy for ultimate good.

A quartet, composed of Mrs. L. E. McLachlin, Mrs. Richard Vanderburgh, Mr. W. H. Cameron, and Dr. W. W. Peter sang two of Mrs. Hiltner's favorite hymns, "Still, Still With Thee," and "Sunset and Evening Star."

A large attendance at the services and the luxuriance and profusion of the floral offerings attested to the respect and sincere liking of the community for Mrs. Hiltner had lived in China for 10 years. During that time she was known for her work in the American Woman's Club, the Community Church and the Y.W.C.A.

She is survived by her husband and four children.

Railway Pact Strengthens Japan

part of the Trans-Siberian Railways. On this account, under the present conditions, the tarin leaves much to be desired. From the dual consideration of cementing the relations betwten the South Manchurian and the Chinese Eastern Railways, and also of the interest of the exporters of North Manchurian produce this same tariff lies as an obstacle to the further cultivation of good feeling between the two lines, at the same time curbing the shippers' option of choosing between the Vladivostok and Dairen routes.

Such a state of affairs required to be rectified. Otherwise the professed friendly co-operation between the two lines will not be established on a sound basis.

The working effect of the Protocol not only to nullify the discriminatory rates established by the Russian builders of the road in favor of Vladivostok, but actually to create discriminatory rates against Vladivostok in favor of Darien, Yingkow and Antung, and to take from Vladivostok the entire trade from west and south of Harbin and the lion's share of the trade from east of Harbin and up to the very environs of the Russian port. Thus the Chinese Eastern railway is made to do the exact opposite of the work which the Russians built it to do: that is, the creation of a Russian port on the Pacific.

SHIFTS ROLLING STOCK

Such a change in routing of traffic on the Chinese Eastern must necessarily make itself evident in the disposition and despatching of rolling stock on the line. Although nothing is said to this effect in the text of the protocol, I am assured that an understanding exists for the transfer of rolling-stock from the Harbin-Vladivostok section to the Harbin-Changchun or southern section. (The junction with the South Manchurian is at Changchun, the railway being in the shape of a capital T. The horizontal stroke is really that portion of the Trans-Siberian system running through the protuberance of Manchuria and the perpendicular stroke is the southern section, really an extension of the Japanese lines to meet the Trans-Siberian system at Harbin. Question 2 in the Protocol probably provides for the change in rolling-stock which will be required at the time of change of guage. It reads:

Question 2. (Proposed by C. E. R.) The question of changing the standard carload capacity from 30 Tons to 33 tons on the part of the South Manchurian Railway Company has been settled by the latter's agreeing to introduce the change from October 1, 1922.

It is evident that as long as the guage differs and goods must be unloaded and reloaded at Changchun anyhow, variation in the carload is of small material difference. But as soon as cars can be hauled through from Siberia to the Japanese South Manchurian ports without change it becomes of moment that the carload for through rating be the same on the South Manchurian as on the railway of origin.

The relation of the agreement between Chinese Eastern and South Manchurian lines to Russian, International and Chinese politics, to the Inter-Allied Technical Board, to the Chinese Ministry of Communications, to the Chinese Administration and personages therein, to the Russo-Asiatic Bank who pretend to be the sole representatives of the original stockholders and to other Japanese railway construction and extension projects in Manchuria, as well as the financial obligations incurred will be dealt with in following articles.

Shanghai Nine Plays Henderson Team Again This Afternoon At 5 p.m.

Local Nine Expect To Take Game Again From Sailor Nine

The Shanghai Baseball nine will have their last crack at the transport Henderson nine this afternoon commencing at 5 o'clock, on the local lot. The big Naval transport sails tomorrow morning for Manila. Shanghai has beaten the sailors once and are certain to play them again to a standstill.

The U. S. S. Huron baseball crew slammed John Scott for twelve hits Sunday, the dozen singles including a home run, two triples and two doubles—a total of 21 bases. Yet the U. S. S. Huron nine was beaten by a score of 5-2 because Shanghai got every break and every close decision went to the locals.

There were other attractions than the ball game. The Secretary of the American Navy, Edwin S. Denby pitched the first ball after loosening the old soupy by throwing a few to the Huron field marshal, Lamke. The Secretary went to the pitcher's box and before cutting loose with the pitch, he waved the ball to the gobs behind first base and they gave him a great yell.

The game was a hummer, featured as stated, by the play of Bills and Holliday and the pitching of Scott in the pinches. The world's greatest scorer, Cal Hirsch, is nursing a bad split finger from one of Scott's fast ones and this necessitated a change in the lineup bringing Maloney in the game at third base, Holliday going to second with Jack Smith behind the bat. The change was a sensible one for all three played nice ball. Wynn's throwing from left was also worthy of notice.

The Huron had a couple of new men in. Flowers on first and Disler at second base and the men will fit in well with Lamke and Scymanski. The latter played brilliant baseball Saturday and accepted five chances without a bobble yesterday. Lamke played a nice game yesterday despite his one error while Neal and Campbell hit doubles, Liddy, and Radcliffe, the husky catcher, netted triples, and Disler clouted a circuit wallop.

Henderson Band Goes Big With Baseball Fans

Charlie Bozzo and his band from the Henderson made a big hit with the fans at the ballyard Saturday afternoon and yesterday. Charlie was a director of the orchestra at one of B. F. Keith's New York City theaters when the war broke out and he joined the Navy. He was soon made a chief musician.

Charlie was just about to step back into civil life when the Secretary of the Navy decided to go on the Henderson and Charlie was selected to lead the band.

He has with him some of the best musicians in the American Navy and all the latest music. "Number 50" in the book was the popular number with the fans at "Stock in the Morning."

SAYS 'BUGS' Baer: GINK GOOD GAME GOLFER

A Field Mouse Decides Championship Contest Between Him And Scotchcake

Dear Old Dear—

Is it right that Gink left off baseball umpiring because he made a fortune on pop bottles?

Yours until trouble starts,

DICK KENNEDEE.

Gink never caught a pop bottle. When he was umpiring he dodged everyhing, like a coward in a war.

He is now the best golfer operating in our fashionable Newport bunkers. He has put his fighting career behind him.

He is a man who hates publicity. Whenever he came to New York he used to ride in a closed van with a cop at each end to keep off strangers.

Like Jack Dempsey, the love letters he got annoyed him.

He received millions of love letters. His tailor would love to have his bills paid, his landlord would love to get the rent, his grocer would love to grab some instalments on the lima beans.

But Gink didn't requite their affection.

His first big golf match was with Harry Scotchcake, the famous Glascow niblick addict. Gink was the professional club borrower of the Roughtown Country Club. They met on the Roughtown links, consisting of thirty-six shell holes.

The first hole was sixteen miles long. The links looked like a Swiss cheese. Gink and Harry were so long putting on the green that a field mouse raised a family in the cup.

That decided the game. Scotchcake resigned the contest and left for Scotland to write his memoirs on the back of a cancelled postage stamp.

The championship remained in America and the proud Roughtown folks broke an empty champagne bottle over Gink's skull.

Challenges were sent to Africa, China and rural free postal districts. Gink borrowed another set of clubs and scrapped off the owner's initials.

He was nothing if not honest. And he was not honest.

Sporting Editor's Letter Box

Sporting Editor: The China Press

Dear Sir.—Is it permissible to question your dictum about "Ace Jack Pot" in your issue of Sunday, today's paper? You would seem to have entirely overlooked the point that the players evidently played "Mistigris," since the "Joker" was included in the pack. Under those conditions it is clear that A., who had no Aces, yet held the equivalent of THREE TENS, which outranks two aces. He was, consequently fully entitled to open the pot. Your reply ignores the Joker, which is the vital ingredient. Point is fully dealt with in Foster's Encyclopaedia of games, which is accepted as Hoyle, Up to Date.

Yours:
"JOKER"
Shanghai, July 23, 1922.

"Joker's" contention would be all right, if "A" had drawn two, instead of three cards. But since he finished with two tens and the joker, the other two cards being "of no importance," as "Sport" explained in his letter, it is obvious that "A" opened either with two tens, or one ten and the joker, which even "Joker" will admit was not an opening hand. Therefore, Mr. "Joker," the "vital ingredient" was the fact that "A" drew three cards. So again we say: Mr. "B" was as right as can be.—Ed.

Bydand Challenge Cup Play Goes To Fourth Round This Afternoon

Robinsons' And Dallas' Sides May Meet In Days Four Chukkers

Play in the Bydand challenge cup tournament of the Shanghai Polo Club goes to the fourth round this afternoon, on the local field commencing at 5:30 o'clock. Of the four teams in the competition it was not stated up to yesterday afternoon just which fours would play for the trophy today. McMichael's team has a big lead in the total of goals scored thus far, with Hickling's four a fair second. Dallas' team however has shown rare form, and in spite of Gibbings injury last Saturday is still figured to carry on in top form with Liddell substituting.

It is likely that Robinson's team, composed of Robinson, Tolson, Hind and Grieg, will meet Dallas' side, composed of Geo. Dallas, Gibbings or Liddill, Wilson and A. N. Dallas, this afternoon for the fourth day's play. The two teams have not yet met in the competitions, and inasmuch as they are the lowest scorers in the tournament, it is quite probable that they will be selected for the afternoons match in order to bring the scores of the four teams up to a close average.

The play is scheduled to finish on Saturday with the mid-week match scheduled for Thursday. Each of the four teams is scheduled to play the other once, so that six days of play have been necessary. Should the "B" team meet the "C" side today, there will remain matches between the "A" side and Dallas' "C" four perhaps for Thursday and a final between Robinson's "B" and Hickling's "D" for Saturday.

Today match commences at 5:30 o'clock.

JAPANESE ASK SPECIAL FAVOR FOR COLLEGES

Shantung Commission Considers Chinese Plan Of Classification

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 24.—At a meeting of the Sino-Japanese Commission today the Chinese Commissioners proposed to classify the enterprises at Kiaochao entered into during the Japanese regime under three periods firstly, before the signature of the Shantung Treaty; secondly, after the signature; thirdly, after the ratification of the Treaty. All the details and the plans of the budgets, etc., would be submitted for the study and consideration of the Chinese.

The Japanese asked for special Chinese consideration of the various colleges, associations, the Chamber of Commerce, clubs, etc., adding that if such consideration were given the Japanese would waive claims for reimbursement of expenditure on such properties.

The Japanese also asked that China should continue the same protection and give the same facilities as Japan had given for the markets, the training areas, the Race Club, the Golf Club, the Tennis Club, the Christian and benevolent societies; also for various educational enterprises, the Isolation Hospital, the archery field, etc., some of which held their grounds under contract.

The Chinese replied that these matters were generally within the spheres of the Tsingtao municipal administration and would need to be further studied and discussed.

FOREIGNER FINED $2,500 FOLLOWING BIG OPIUM HAUL

H. Auslander Heavily Penalised In French Mixed Court

The increasing severity with which persons convicted of opium trading are being dealt with was further proved in the French Mixed Court yesterday when H. Auslander, a Rumanian, formerly employed as a runner by Thomas Cook and Son, was fined $2,500 by Assessor Crepin and Magistrate Tcheng.

The Court handed down the judgment following the seizure of a large quantity of opium in the transfer of which, from the French Mail jetty to the Shanghai Nanking-Railway Station, Auslander had conspired. It is noteworthy that in passing the judgement the fine was not for the importation of opium, which was not proved to have been done by Auslander, but for the transfer within the settlement.

The seizure of the drug was made by the police of the International Settlement on Peking Road, near Kiangse Road. The coolies, carting the drug on a Wheelbarrow, testified in the Central Police station that they had been hired by two foreigners. Auslander's arrest followed.

IS YOUR BABY GAINING IN WEIGHT?

One of the surest signs that a baby is making good progress is steady increase in weight. After the first week there should be regular and rapid growth if the baby is being properly nourished.

The most common cause of failure to gain weight is malnutrition, the food is either deficient in quality or quantity, or the digestive organs are not doing their work properly. When the stomach or bowels are at fault all that is necessary to set matters right is the administration of Baby's Own Tablets, the pleasant-tasting Canadian remedy for little ones of all ages. No fear need be entertained as to the wisdom of giving these Tablets, because they are guaranteed, under a Government Analyst's certificate, to contain not a single particle of opiate, narcotic, or other injurious drug and to be equally helpful and harmless to the youngest infant as to the child of 8 years old or more.

Baby's Own Tablets are just the right remedy for infantile constipation, colic, indigestion, diarrhoea, simple fever, teething troubles and worms. They bring natural, restful health-promoting sleep, restore appetite and make the baby thrive. Of chemists, or post free, 60 cent the vial, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

DR. KINDLER IS STILL HELD ON ARMS CHARGE

French Police Continue Inquiry On Trafficking In Munitions

Dr. O. Fischer, who is representing L. Oldenburg, one of the three defendants who are being held in connection with the charge of trafficking in arms, will make an application to have his client released on bail within the next few days.

Oldenburg and Dr. Max Kindler are being held in the French jail, pending action by the French Mixed Court. Dudley Warner, an American, also implicated in the charge, will be formally charged in the American court before U. S. Commissioner Lurton on Wednesday. Oldenburg, who is a German, and Warner were employed by the firm of Pasedag and Company.

Kindler now faces two charges, the French police having arrested him previously in the charge of having secured $20,000 from a Chinese under false pretences. He was released on bail on this charge, only to be arrested the following day, together with Oldenburg and Warner, as a result of the raid on 30 Weihaiwei road, where a quantity of arms and ammunition was seized.

French police are conducting an investigation into a motor car accident which took place on Avenue Haig early Sunday morning in which one foreigner was killed and another and a Chinese injured. The dead man is Theodore Mohr, 5A Yates Road, a German, employed in the local offices of Carlowitz and Company. G. W. Richter, of the Burington Hotel, also an employe of the same firm, is in the hospital suffering from severe bruises and a bad shaking up.

According to information obtained by the police, both men had been to an outlying cafe in the French Concession, Richter was driving the car, Mohr was seated beside him, and a Chinese chauffeur was in the rear of the car. When about two hundred yards west of the intersection of Avenue Haig with Ronte Ferguson, Richter saw a ricsha coming towards him. In an endeavor to avoid the ricsha, he made a sharp turn, and losing control of the car, crashed into a ttree alongside the road. Mohr was thrown out and received injuries as the result of which he died fifteen minutes later at the Red Cross Hospital. The Chinese suffered bruises.

Mohr came to Shanghai five months ago from Hamburg. He was 24 years old and unmarried. Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at Bubbling Well Cemetery.

Maybe She'll Change Her Mind Again

Miss Mary L. Baker.

MARY Landon Baker, Chicago heiress, who four times postponed her wedding to Allister McCormick, declared in Paris she would sail for the United States on September 1 and that if she does not marry him by that time she never will marry him. He joined her when she went abroad, and the wedding plans were made, as they had been made four times before. But there's been no wedding.

GLAND EXPERT OPERATES ON H.F. M'CORMICK

Surgeon Who Made Transfers From Lower Animals To Humans Performs Task

Chicago, June 17.—Mystery tonight veiled the exact nature of an operation performed on Harold F. McCormick, chairman of the executive committee of the International Harvester Company, the news of which became public tonight.

At the Wesley Memorial Hospital it was first denied that Mr. McCormick had been a patient, although it later was admitted that he occupied an entire wing, which had been walled from the rest of the institution to insure privacy.

The operation was performed by Dr. Victor D. Lespinasse, widely known surgeon, who became famous from operations by which he grafted glands of lower animals upon human beings. Dr. Lespinasse asserted tonight that he had known about the transplanting of monkey glands long before Dr. Voronoff, of Paris. He asserted that he had now discarded this and operated with human glands. He said that he had been interested in this work, the object of which is the rejuvenation of human beings, for the past fifteen years.

ROCKEFELLER HIS MODEL

At the hospital there was no denial of reports that Mr. McCormick was undergoing a transplantation of glands, with the object of attaining an extension of his years of youth. He is in his fifty-first year and always has preferred to associate with the young.

Physicians are said to have advised him that he is at the right age to undergo the operation for gland transplantation. Most men on whom this operation has been tried have been sixty years old or more. These operations have assured them prolongation of life from ten to fifteen years, according to gland specialists.

Mr. McCormick has been an admirer of the vigor of his father-in-law, John D. Rockefeller, who will be eighty-three July 8, and who expects to live until he is 100.

Mr. McCormick is said to have become interested in the subject of prolonging his life and retaining his boyish spirit through a chance remark by a noted specialist whom he met in Europe. He explained to the scientist that he was trying to keep young by a rigid regimen of diet and exercise, included outdoor sports and gymnastic work, in which he became so expert that he could turn fifteen handsprings in succession.

The scientist told him, according to reports, that such violent exercise was too strenuous for a man more than forty years old, and advised him to study the subject of gland transplantation. This often includes grafting glands from a younger man or from a monkey on the person seeking perpetual youth. Mr. McCormick is said to have decided in favor of human glands purchased from a youth who needed money.

WILL SAIL FOR EUROPE

Dr. Lespinasse arrived at the hospital early today and hastened to the McCormick suite. Shortly afterward Miss Muriel McCormick, his daughter, motored to the hospital and hurried to her father's suite. She remained there for twenty minutes, but refused to be interviewed when she left.

Miss Mathilde McCormick, accompanied by Howard Colby, close friend of Mr. McCormick, visited the patient at noon. Mr. Colby said he found Mr. McCormick in excellent condition.

"You should see him," he said. "He is smoking cigarettes and feeling fine."

Shantung Envoys In New Tangle

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, July 21.—The seventh meeting of the Second Section of the Sino-Japanese Commission took place at the Foreign Office this morning.

The Chinese commissioners proposed to define the word "permanent improvements on or additions to the railway properties in Article 15 of the Shantung Treaty in accordance with the Accounting Rules and Classifications of Railways as prescribed by the Chinese Ministry of Communications. The Japanese Commissioners submitted a proposal in five articles as defining "the improvements on or additions to the railway properties."

After a prolonged discussion the two delegations were unable to reach an agreement. It was finally decided to refer the question to the Sub-Committee of Railway properties for study and examination.

In case of failure on their part to reach any agreement on any points, the points could be referred back to the plenary session of this Commission for decision.

Pending the study of the inventory of the railway properties by the Sub-Committee on Railway Properties, the Commission decided to adjourn ad interim. The next meeting will be arranged by the General Secretaries of the two delegations.

"Poison Penmen" Bothering Bureau

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 20.—The Ministry of Communications has already received numerous anonymous letters purporting to contain valuable advice regarding the affairs of the Ministry, and it has now issued a notice that no consideration whatever will be given to anonymous or unsigned communications.

While the Ministry will always pay due attention to suggestions from the people there is no valid reason why such should not contain the proper signatures of the writers.

Exchange Fluctuations
Asia Banking Corporation

July 24, 1922

Spot bar silver was down ⅛d. and forward ⅛d. in London yesterday.

The New York price declined to 69⅞ cents and the London-New York cross rate is unchanged.

The only change in our official quotations today was a rise in the Franc rate to 915.

Our market in the early part of the morning was weak but became steadier later on in the day only to ease off again in the afternoon. At the opening a fair amount of business was done in Sterling at 3s. 5⅛d. and in Gold Dollars at 77¼.

However, after speculators had bought a fair amount at those rates they stepped buying. Advices came in that the Hongkong market was on the firm side and our market here steadied up, Sterling at one time being done as high as 3s. 5⅜d. and Gold Dollars at 77½. However, there were very strong buyers at those rates.

The market, therefore, eased off, business in Sterling being done successively at 3s. 5⅛d., 3s. 5⅜d., 2s. 5⅞d. and 3s. 5⅛d.

At the close there were no sellers at better than 3s. 5⅛d. The best sellers of Gold Dollars were offering 77¼ only. There were buyers and sellers of Yen at the close at 61⅞. Sterling bills could have been placed at the close at 3s. 6⅜d., Gold Dollar bills at 78¾ and Francs bills at 943.

India and the Continent sold silver in London on Saturday.

The market is reported as being uncertain at the close.

New York report their market as easy with sellers rather than buyers.

Priest's Bravery Foils Bank Robbers

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 22.—Armed men today raided four banks at Dundalk simultaneously, securing £1,400. An attempt on the Munster and Leinster Bank was foiled by the courage of a priest, who refused to raise hands at the point of a revolver, but raised an alarm by flinging two ink stands at a window.

The National guards at the adjacent post-office, hearing the crash, dashed to the Bank and captured three of the raiders.

Jamaicas Chinese Problem

(New York Herald)

THE Chinese question has taken on an unusual form in Jamaica. At present it is engaging the serious attention of the people of that beautiful West Indian island, with its solution nowhere in sight.

In Jamaica the trouble is not based on the complaint immortalised in Bert Harte's memorable phrase "ruined by Chinese cheap labor." It is quite the reverse of that. The Jamaican complaint against the Chinese immigrant is not that he will labor cheaper than anybody else. It is that, in the sense of manual toil, he will not labor. As far as farming is concerned the Chinese in Jamaica will have none of it. He goes in exclusively for trade. Furthermore, he trades in an adroit and skillful way that makes him a highly dangerous competitor.

A Kingston correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger reports that Chinese have monopolised the retail provision business and are now organising to enter the wholesale importing trade in a way that may shut everybody else out of it. In addition to that there are surface indications that the Chinese are planning to get control of the liquor trade as well. The news of Chinese commercial prosperity in Jamaica has reached China, with the result that already the influx of Chinese is being greatly augmented.

Restrictive legislation has been proposed. One suggestion was an immigration tax equivalent to about $1,000 a head. Another was refusal of a liquor trading license to anybody who is not a British subject. But the representatives of the British Empire feared international complications if these measures were adopted. The Empire is greatly interested in maintaining good relations with China. Both plans were abandoned.

It was finally decided to appoint a committee to investigate the subject and report on the facts. Jamaica has had race problems in the past, and something may be found in the island records to suggest a remedy for the present difficulties.

Paradise Enow

BY OWEN OWEN

I can imagine that in the period antedating history, say among those art-loving troglodytes the Cro-Magnons, such a picture as this was common:

It is somewhere around twilight. Father has dragged home food. He and She and the children have eaten. Replete, they sit on the grass and sing. Possibly he thrums some combination of gourd and strings producing banjolike sounds. It is a calm and peaceful hour, wherein—during the brief respite between day's work and recuperative sleep—humans taste life consciously.

Jump to 1922. The Jones family has prospered amid the appliances of civilisation, planned its vacation, crown of all the year and is zestfully looking forward to:

Those delicious two weeks during which Pa and Ma and the children will sit on the grass at twilight, replete from the fish He dragged home with boastings, while someone thrums and someone thrums and someone sings.

It is the best, the finest, the most satisfying dower modern life can give us—those hours the Cro-Magnons had, when we consciously taste life under the trees. The cycle is complete. The rail-head of Progress is—its starting point!

And why not? There is nothing here to regret. The city man's joyful return to Nature is no theme for sardonic comment. It is a good, wholesome instinct, innocent, goodly, worthy of fulfillment.

A few thousands of years do not change the bipeds Nature toiled over for millions. The ozone and the chlorophyll are in our blood yet. What pleased Ab and Mrs. Ab and the little Abs pleases us and always will, till Time tires of striking the hours. The happiest fortnights civilisation can offer us are those in which we leave it. Because we are still Abs.

A Triumph Of Hope

A Chicago judge, whose health broke down after he had tried 6,500 divorce cases in two years, is still optimistic upon the subject of marriage.

He advises people to marry young, not to wait until they have an automobile and a bank account, and not to bother about the frills of weddings. If a young man with a steady job finds the right girl and they love each other, he advises them to marry and let the future take care of itself.

The name of this judge is Joseph Sabath, and he deserves commendation not only for his good sense, but for his strength and courage in having withstood the assaults which his experience must have made upon his judgment. A man whose daily occupation brings him in contact with the seamy side of life might well be pardoned if he came to the conclusion that life is all seams.

Most marriages are happy. They do not end in divorce courts. Hospitals, as a rule, are kept busy, and yet most people are healthy.

Give God A Chance

BY DR. CH. FLEISCHER

In the good old days of faithful piety, it used to be the general belief that God and one are a majority. Commonly enough, this was tried out and found to be a working faith.

The Jews, a mere handful of human beings, long ago were believers of this kind, regarded their nation as the Divine Pet, found themselves the objects of universal hostility, but felt fearless because God was with them.

The fighting prince, whom they expected to deliver them in their extremity, they called Immanuel. "God With Us"; their national slogan was, in the Psalmist's words: "Mine enemies encompassed me, but in the name of the Lord I triumph over them."

That faith enabled the Jews to survive.

That may sound to the modern reader like ancient stuff, but it has its up-to-date and decidedly personal implications.

Truth has a way of never growing old, though the clothes it wears may cease to be fashionable.

Language is only the clothing of thought. Ideas spring from the Eternal mind and are eternal as their source.

Ages, generations, peoples and persons, in time and place, re-coin everlasting ideas and give them new mintage, momentary currency and local exchange value.

So there is the old Hebraic thought of God and one. God and you. They are still and always a working majority.

In simple Americanese for everyday use, this merely means that you are invincible if you have chosen God for your ally.

He is helpless to help you, unless you have selected Him as your Helper.

After that, all power is yours. And all wisdom, all truth, all justice, all beauty—in a word, all Worth, which flowing from the world of spirit, gives lasting meaning to our human life.

All this riches and all this strength are yours—to use.

Thus endowed and armored, you are invincible. Man can do nothing to harm you; nor can chance or circumstance.

Hitherto you may have imagined yourself beset by "enemies"—poverty, sickness, weakness, sympathy, lack of opportunity.

But now you know that you are rich and well and kind, and the creator of opportunity.

And so you grow from success to success. You radiate health and power and love. You and God are Makers of Good.

You allow God to work with you. You permit Him to shine through you. You are giving God a chance!

This is neither new thought nor old thought, but everlasting truth.

In these days, when we do not talk so readily and knowingly in theological terms, it is perhaps easier to find a common denominator for this Eternal Idea in our democratic language.

So let us say that our appeal herewith is really for the self-knowledge, self-respect and self-confidence at the heart of our democratic creed.

And so we offer, as equivalent to the ancient Hebraic doctrine, the eternal thought thus dressed in modern speech, KNOW YOURSELF, RESPECT YOURSELF, BELIEVE IN YOURSELF, and you will be amazed to find what an inexhaustible reservoir of power YOU are.

Give yourself a fighting chance.

Russian Art And Europe

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow, June 20.—People's Commissar of Education, Mr. Lunacharsky, recently stated that evidence reached him daily of the steadily reviving interest in Europe and America as to the present state of art in Russia and its fate during the last four or five years. Russian artists, of their part, are anxious to meet the requests for the re-establishment of former connections, all the more because they believe that what they have to present to Europe will not be without interest.

It is still doubtful, in spite of every effort that is being made, whether Russian painting will be represented at the Venice Art Exhibition. On the other hand, it is practically certain that Russian painting will be represented at the forthcoming Book Exhibition in Florence by a large collection of books. In addition, an exhibition of Russian art and industrial progress is being planned to take place in Germany shortly.

As far as music is concerned, the return to pre-war connections has begun. The State string Quartette has just returned from a tour under the auspices of the Soviet Government itself. According to reports in the Scandinavian press, as well as in the Russian press, the concerts given were extraordinarily well attended. Chaliapin's warm reception in Europe and America during his recent tour must not be forgotten, nor Glazunov's tour in Europe as conductor of his own compositions.

The arrangement now come to is that for the present the tours of Russian artists shall proceed under the auspices of the Famine Relief Commission, and that a percentage of the proceeds from all performances shall go to the relief of the famine sufferers. Under this scheme there are now preparing to go abroad the Stradivarius quartette, the Ballerina Geltser, and a group of actors headed by Nezhdanova; in addition, the First Studio group of the Moscow Art Theater is preparing to go to Sweden this summer, and the main Art Theater group is in America.

It is sin to lie!
It is sin to steal!
It is sin to covet thy neighbor's wife!
But what is "THE UNPARDONABLE SIN?"

Railway Reorganisation In Russia

A fundamental reform of the whole railway organisation in Soviet Russia has been worked out by the State Planning Commission and is awaiting the approval of the Council of Labor and Defense. The essence of the plan is decentralisation. It is proposed to distribute the management of the railways among separate boards, each controlling either a single line or a group of lines, and each embracing a system of the most closely connected industries of importance from a national point of view. The distribution of railway management will, therefore, be on a commercial and industrial principle rather than a territorial one, and the whole object of the railways will be the development of the economic resources of the country.

The local managing boards will be permitted a large measure of independence and initiative in the commercial exploitation of their lines and will be expected to enter independently into relationship with the other state economic bodies within their area on all matters connected with transport.

It will be one of the duties of the managing boards to restore and develop the transport systems within their control, one of the chief means being the encouragement (by offering cheap railway facilities) of existing and new industrial enterprises.

The Commissariat of Transport will have change of the general control of the railway system as a whole, and its assent must be obtained for the nomination of the members of the managing boards. The Commissariat will also examine the annual accounts and estimates of the managing boards and appoint the managers of the lines, who in all administrative and technical matters will be subordinate to the Commissariat, but in commercial and business matters solely to their boards.

Intelligent Fatalism

Blind fatalism is foolish, as it may deaden one to proper precautions or produce morbid despair.

Intelligent fatalism, however, is usable by everyone.

Soldiers all develop courage by adopting the creed: "You will never die till your time comes."

Taken with proper limitations and the right mixture of common sense, this is not a bad thing to believe.

The other day Pierre Leray boarded a train in Nantes, France, exclaiming: "I want to go to Heaven."

"Wrong train," replied the conductor, "but get aboard. May be a wreck."

On the train Pierre tried to cut his throat, but was prevented by the other passenger.

Then he threw himself from the car in front of an approaching train but was rescued by the station agent.

A little later he jumped into a lake, but was dragged out by a fisherman.

Again he jumped into the lake, but was revived by a pulmotor.

Then he gave up, exclaiming: "I guess I'd better live a while longer."

By this time, probably, Pierre knows what everyone ought to know, that the thing to do is to preserve life to the best of one's ability, not to seek death nor to be always afraid of death, but to accept both life and death as fate may deal them out to us.

For you will never die till your time comes.

When The Whales Took To Water

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest.

The greatest animals belonging to our class, the mammalia (the milk-bearing animals, among whom alone true mothers exist), are the whales. They are also the largest animals that the world contains, or, as far as we know, ever has contained. If they had had our destiny, what brains they could have carried, intricately folded and thickly coated with "gray matter," inside their mighty skulls, some of which yield hundreds of gallons of pure spermaceti.

What direction would invention and civilisation have taken on this planet if the cetacean had been chosen instead of the primate from among the mammals to bear the banner of intelligence. In that case perhaps the whale would have remained where he started—on land—and have adorned the face of the globe with creations of the intellect triumphing over brute and inanimate nature that would make our proudest achievements resemble the play of infants.

But something very different in the course of evolution happened to the original cetacean. He became an emigrant, driven by what pangs of mighty despair, proportioned to his giant bulk and to his fierce carnivorous instincts, we cannot guess—an emigrant from the continent to the sea, from the kingdom of the land to that of the water.

It was a backward going, for the great march had been and remained in the other direction. Out of the sea waters, emerging from the realm of the fish, had risen the vetebrates (his ancestors) and on the land those improved vertebrates, the mammals (his class) had begun to spread abroad the reign of motherhood, and the impulse of a higher destiny.

And then he, in the midst of it all, the primitive cetacean, the huge giant of physical energy, potential master, perhaps, of the animal world if an adverse fate had not blown in his face, turned his great back and whimpered off, lumberingly, under the sting of a lash he could not bear, and plunged back into the ocean, from which his predecessors had emerged.

That was in early Tertiary times. What did that primitive re-emigrant, that great backslider from the promised land, look like? Here we have to pick and choose among the preferences of the experts and I choose the opinion of those who hold that this daunted ancestor of the whale was of the blood of the primitive carnivora, one of the two branches of the mammalia, and that one the very branch to which we belong—the flesh-eaters. "Creodont carnivora" they call these creatures in the painfully wrenched Greek with which zoologists and others adorn their books, and set the public wondering if there was sufficient warrant for so mercilessly tormenting old and inoffensive linguistic roots in order to force fragments of them to grow into a modern nomenclature that is changed every generation.

Well, as we were saying, a particular branch of primitive carnivora, in the eocene age, or a little earlier, went back to the great and melancholy sea, and there became the ancestors of the cetaceans, or whales, and their mammals, the mother-animals, of the ocean. They had been carnivores on land and they remained carnivores when they emigrated to the sea.

Some of the toothed whales are among the most savage and voracious inhabitants of the great deep. The big sperm whale, stronger than an elephant, yes, than many elephants, and as fierce as the tiger, which would be but a squalling kitten in its jaws, hunts the mighty devil-fish, the vast squirming, goggle-eyed octopus, and tears him, despite the strength of all his Briarean arms, from his gloomy den at the bottom of the sea, hauls him battling for life to the surface, thrashes and rends him to death, swallowing the prey in great masses, which whalemen sometimes discover half-digested.

The "killer whale" is a yet more terrible destroyer of all living things in the sea. "In pursuing its prey," says Roy C. Andrews of the American Museum of Natural History, who has seen and heard what he describes, "the killer bellows in a terrifying manner."

Perchance the land should congratulate itself that the whales, ancestors, those dissatisfied, or disgruntled, creodont carnivora of early Tertiary times, emigrated to the sea, and carried their ferocity and voracity with them. On the other hand, one can conceive that the whales themselves would not feel any regret if they discovered what had been done.

They have got two-thirds of the whole face of the earth for their kingdom; they are the masters of all, with but few smaller creatures that dare to attack them, and none apparently that can contend with some of their species, such as the "killer"; while, although man, the universal conqueror, hunts them even in the midst of their vast possessions, yet they have places of refuge far safer than any they could have found on the land. But, in their physiological functions they cannot deny their ancient motherhood. The sea does not fully own them for its children; they have to come to the surface at intervals to breathe.

Marriage Plot Charged By M'Adoo's Sister

MRS. Thelma Helms Foster, of New York, has brought suit for $50,000 against Mrs. Nona McAdoo Foster, alleging that Mrs. Foster alienated the affections of her husband, Angelo Scarpa Foster, whom she is suing for a separation. Mrs. Nona McAdoo Foster, sister to former Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo, is the foster mother of Angelo Foster, whom, she adopted years ago in Knoxville, Tenn. Her answer to the suit is an allegation that after her daughter-in-law's grandfather and her uncle, Charles M. Whitney, Sr., and Charles M. Whitney, Jr., induced her to sell $75,000 worth of bonds and invest it in their real estate firm, they brought about the secret marriage to deprive her of her money. Foster is sticking to his foster mother. The younger Mrs. Foster was denied temporary alimony and counsel fees.

Wu Ting-fang, In Final Statement, Defends Stand

BY DR. WU TING FANG

Following is the last public statement made by Dr. Wu Ting-fang issued by his son Dr. Chao-chu Wu.

When the militarists trampled the law under foot in 1917, I refused to countersign the mandate illegally dissolving Parliament. I therefore left the North and accompanied President Sun and other colleagues to the South to work for the maintenance of the Constitution. In spite of vicissitudes during the last six years I have not wavered in this resolution.

Last year Dr. Sun was elected President and I became Minister of Foreign Affairs and of Finance in his Government.

And when General Chen Chiung-ming resigned office recently, I was moved to accept temporarily the office of Governor of the province, hoping that peace and prosperity might come to my native province and to the country.

Events, however, have falsified my wish and desire. It may be that my sincerity is insufficient to inspire my colleagues and that my virtue is not enough to secure the obedience of the military officers and their men.

As Governor of the province, I have not had time to do any constructive work.

ARMED MEN CLASH

And now armed conflict has suddenly broken out within the Family Hall to the confusion of the City and dismay of the people. I myself have had to seek shelter in a friend's home as the Governor's House has been under fire.

I have not dared hitherto to leave my post of duty although the pressure of the militarists is heavy and I am without means to maintain the situation. But having exhausted thought to devise means to cope with the present danger, I have been forced to the conclusion that Chen Chiung-ming is the only man who is able to control the military units now in possession of Canton.

I have accordingly telegraphed him to come post haste and I trust that out of consideration for his native province, he will devise ways and means for its future welfare.

As I have been unable either to prevent the present trouble or to control it, I feel greatly ashamed and mortified. I am also ill from anxiety and the strain of it all. My heart is cold and my thoughts are pessimistic. I am therefore determined to retire.

I ask the President to permit me to resign from all my offices. The portfolios of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Finance whose functions cannot be properly discharged at present are temporarily wound up and returned to the President. The seal of office of the Governor of Kwangtung is delivered to the Provincial Assembly for temporary custody.

The Constitutionalist struggle has had its origin in the interference by the militarists with government. Even now, instead of a change, the same method of military force is being resorted to here. Indeed, the present case is worse.

OWN PARTY HARMING US

Those who harm us are of our own party and the province is exposed to external attack. That is why my sorrow is so great.

Verily, the province and the country cannot be saved unless there is a fundamental change in heart and method. And though I am possessed by grief and indignation, I hope that my fellow countrymen may yet find means to solve the present grave situation.

As to the newspaper reports regarding the northern invitation to me to participate in the new government in Peking I take it that this is one of the steps considered necessary for the restoration of the status quo ante at the date of the illegal dissolution of Parliament in 1917.

While I admire General Li Yuan-hung's sense of responsibility and zeal, in undertaking his present task, his reinstatement as President lacks legal and constitutional basis. As in 1917 I refused to be a party to the dissolution of Parliament, so today I dare not follow those who support his reinstatement.

The re-establisment of law and the Constitution can only be effected by the reassembly of Parliament in circumstances enabling it to discharge its duties and function freely and without restraint and the subsequent formation of a government. In my humble opinion, this is the sole way of national salvation. There is no other.

OWED IT TO NATION

I am an old man, four score in years. I have seen enough changes and vicissitudes. I have no axe to grind. But since I took an active part when the Republic was born in difficulties and in great travail, I have thought that I owe it to the nation to assist in making it a success.

This is the reason why, in recent years, I have not refused to choose hardship and heavy duties instead of the peace and comfort of retirement. But now troubles come of an unusual and unexpected character. My strength is spent and my heart is broken I shall rest, presently, "my shadow in mine own garden" and go back to my spiritual studies.

Let me hope that my compatriots, bearing in mind the errors of the past and the difficulties of the future, will be guided by law and reason in settling national problems and cease strife through mutual trust and sincerity. And I pray that all may unite in a spirit of co-operation and tolerance to work for the good of the Republic and of Humanity.

Finance Body To Strengthen Service

Peking, July 23.—In reply to a telegram received from the Shanghai General Chamber of Commerce, the Bankers' Association, etc., urging the National Financial Commission to devise means to strengthen the Consolidated National Loan Service Sinking Fund, the above Commission states that the request is in accordance with the Commission's general policy and that the question is already receiving attention.

The matter will soon be brought up for general discussion with a view to strengthening the credit of the Government and safeguarding the interests of the bondholders.
